

Stonewall Recovery in partnership with Simon House Recovery Centre, Announces Launch of Online Recovery Program to Meet Growing Demand

For Immediate Release

Stonewall Recovery, a leading provider of addiction recovery services for 2SLGBTQ+ Canadians, announced today that it will be launching an online recovery program on May 23, 2023. The decision to launch the online program was driven by the overwhelming need for safe and effective addiction recovery support, as so many 2SLGBTQ+ people go without services in Canada.

"With the number of calls and emails seeking support and the challenges that many 2SLGBTQ+ people face in accessing addiction recovery services, we knew that we couldn't wait any longer to launch our online recovery program," said Steven Archambault, Co-Founder of Stonewall Recovery. "Our mission is to provide safe and supportive spaces for 2SLGBTQ+ Canadians to heal and recover, and we are proud to be able to offer this critical service to those who need it now."

By launching the online program, Stonewall Recovery hopes to expand access to addiction recovery support to 2SLGBTQ+ Canadians who need to start something now.

"We know that the need for addiction recovery services is too great to wait until we can raise the funds to purchase facilities," said Brittney Sawyer, Stonewall Recovery's other Co-Founder. "With our online program, we can reach people where they are and provide them high-quality care and support immediately."

Stonewall Recovery's online recovery program will offer a range of services, including virtual group therapy sessions, peer support, and access to recovery resources. The program will be available to 2SLGBTQ+ Canadians, and will be accessible via computer, tablet, or smartphone.

"We are excited to launch this new program and to continue our mission of providing safe and supportive spaces for 2SLGBTQ+ Canadians to heal and recover," said Sawyer. "We look forward to welcoming participants to our online program beginning on May 23, 2023."
